SOCIETY FRILLS SCORED IN TALK TO CLUB WOMEN

Declaring that woman to be truly helpful in her highest state must necessarily dispense with "so-called society with all its vain pomp and splendor," Dr. David L. Linnick, in an address before the Central Arizona District Federation of Women's Clubs on "The Position of Modern Woman," created a real sensation.

Dr. Linnick admitted in a certain degree that it took courage to appear before such a large audience of women, but it would require additional courage to tell them in fact. In forceful words Dr. Linnick made it clear that in his opinion the kind of society to which he made reference would have to disappear before woman could attain her best.

"Modern woman will do it," prophesied the speaker, who held the interested attention of club women as in a straight from the shoulder talk he emphasized the need of women to get away from the doll and slave characteristics which have been handed down to her.

In order to understand the position of the modern woman one has to study the history and development of woman since the early time, said Dr. Linnick, as he traced the position of woman among the three classic nations, the Hebrew, Greek and Roman.

"Some who opposed the equality of woman claimed that she possessed characteristics which would make her unfit for citizenship—for instance a lack of fairness, even veracity, declaring that she was too emotional and sentimental."

"Granted some women are of this type, they have become so through environment, that is, women have lived for many centuries under conditions that have made her a doll or slave and therefore for self protection she often developed certain characteristics of which she will have to get rid in order to become a good citizen."

Dr. Linnick stated that in becoming a woman she must possess a certain degree had lost the objectionable attributes. He deplored the girl who adopted masculine mannerisms, asserting that in order for her to attain her true sphere she must always remain feminine.

The sphere of woman is first in the home and then in the world, he declared, and she must make a great contribution to society, but she will be a better wife and mother and more fit to raise future citizens of this great republic by her understanding of the outside world," said the speaker in conclusion.

The address made by Dr. Linnick was the feature of the afternoon session of the all-day meeting held at the Madison improvement club. Nineteen clubs and organizations were represented by delegates and in addition were many other club women and their guests, attracted by the exceptionally well arranged program.

SCHOOL ELECTION TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Elections of trustees for both the grade schools and union high school will be held tomorrow, the former at the school administration building and the latter at the high school. The polls will be open at 10 o'clock and close at 6. Voters must be either the parent or guardian of a minor child or a payer of city or county taxes, either personal or real, including the poll tax.

The candidates for grade school trustee are Dr. L. D. Dameron, incumbent, and Ray W. Ward. The candidates for the high school board are B. F. McFall, present president of the board; George Alkire, a member, and George T. Young. There is one place to be filled. Mr. Alkire for several years has been a trustee for the country district but his removal to town has disqualified him for that position. Mr. McFall has been a member of the board 15 years.

FIX LAND VALUES ACROSS AGUA FRIA
What is described as a settlement of the land values in the Phoenix Western Irrigation district is fore-shadowed in a suit filed in the superior court yesterday by Thomas F. Newcome and Elde H. Ward, candidates for governor in that district, against T. E. Thomas, a rancher, over the sale of land by Thomas to the plaintiffs.

The suit alleges that in February, 1920, the plaintiffs purchased from Mrs. Bertha L. Palmer, owner of the land, through T. E. Thomas, 640 acres across the Agua Fria river in the territory now embraced by the Phoenix Irrigation district, at a price of $20 an acre. The plaintiffs, relying upon the declarations of the agent, took an option on the land and purchased it at $20 an acre, it is claimed.

Following the purchase, the plaintiffs claim, the defendants knew that the value of land including his commissions, was only $10 an acre, and judgment is asked for the difference in the price asked for the land and the price demanded in the option. This difference comes to $3,560, which is asked by the plaintiffs in their suit. Thomas is also a candidate for the governor in the new irrigation district.

Statistics of school children in the United States show those of the Anglo-Saxon race are taller and weigh more than others.
